Airband Radio Equipment End User Declaration

Dear Customer,

Due to an increase in Airband Radio equipment miss-use, it has become necessary for authorised dealers to collect additional information from the end user purchaser when supplying Airband Radio equipment.

As an authorised Airband dealer, we are required to ensure that the end user is appropriately licenced to operate the equipment they are purchasing, and you, are aware that the equipment supplied should be operated strictly in accordance with current regulations. There are severe penalties applied for miss-use/and or operating Airband Radios without the correct licence.

For Australia this means the end user is required to hold a valid Aeronautical Radio Operator Certificate (AROC) and Airband Radio equipment is only to be operated in strict accordance with the Civil Aviation Safety Regulations Part 64 & Part 61 MOS.

Please complete the section below confirming you have read and understand these responsibilities and you confirm you or the end user hold an appropriate AROC to operate the equipment being supplied.

Please email your completed declaration to sales@flightstore.com.au to enable us to release your order for fulfillment.
